Fox Announces New Loma Portal Theatre

Fox West Coast theatres this week announce that Loma Portal is to have a new high class show house, seating 1000 and somewhat the style of the well known State theatre on El Cajon ave. Ground is to be broken in about two weeks and construction started in less than three weeks, Dick Smith, city manager for the San Diego Fox theatres, reports.

Site selected is near Lytton and Rosecrans streets, where the company has owned property for several years. The location was inspected and approved by federal agency representatives several weeks ago, and the company's plans already have been drawn.

The Red Cross In Ocean Beach

By ONA E. PITCOCK

How many of you and your family have been to the blood bank? From reports I am afraid not all of you who can qualify. You all know how badly your blood is needed and you all know that over 97 per cent of our boys' lives are saved by the use of plasma. It does not hurt you a bit to give your blood. It is painless and your pint might save a life. Just think, part of you might be on the battlefront.

You are given refreshments after you have given your blood and if you eat good food as meat, fish and vegetables, you can be a regular giver and when you have given a gallon will receive a pin that you will be proud of wearing. It is so little to do and the reward so great. You can save a life. Please call T-7704 and make an appointment and then keep that appointment.

At the last meeting of Civilian Defense, I was awarded a 1,000-hour ribbon for my services with them. There are not enough words in the dictionary to express my appreciation. My heart is always with the Civilian Defense in their grand work.

Mrs. Oversmith and her two nieces of 4661 Long Beach ave. are doing a wonderful work in knitting for the center.

We have hospital bed shirts to be made and as they are so badly needed I wish all who have machines would call and get some to make up at home. We also have bed jackets and baby blankets for the women's ward of the hospital to sew. Please do your bit.

The truth is, too many people in this country have not had to sharpen their wits on the grindstone of necessity.

VOTE YES ON WATER AUTHORITY MAY 16 ELECTION

DeGraff Austin Named Vice Mayor

DeGraff Austin, councilman in the second district, Tuesday was unanimous choice of other members of the council for vice mayor, to succeed Ernest J. Boud, whose term had expired. It is the custom of the council to select a vice mayor, to preside at council meetings in absence of the mayor, early in May each year.

When nominations were asked by Mayor Harley E. Knox, Councilman Fred W. Simpson proposed Councilman Paul J. Hartley. That councilman declined, stating he would be busy for a few months. He nominated Austin, who accepted.

Officials Inspect Erosion Project

A party of three state officials, and two San Diego city officials, were in Ocean Beach Friday making a first-hand study of San Diego's proposed $100,000 beach erosion control project. The state men indicated they will make a report to the San Diego city council on the data they had gathered.

Under a new state law providing for matching of funds, passed three years ago, San Diego city has already appropriated $50,000, which, it is hoped the state will match, Glenn A. Rick, assistant city manager, and a member of the party who was here, said Thursday. The state has earmarked $34,000 of state park funds toward the project. Exact cost of the work, of course, can not be determined until plans have been drawn and bids obtained.

Ocean Beach is hoping that the project can be definitely decided on before the time limit expires in September for the state's part of the appropriation.

In the group here Friday, besides Mr. Ricks, were Edward Hyatt, state engineer, this being his first visit here; A. D. Edmondson, deputy state engineer; T. H. Van Etten, state hydraulic engineer; and Fred A. Rhodes, city public works director.

High School to Present Concert

Pt. Loma high school's music department will present its spring concert in the school auditorium, Thursday evening, May 18, at 8 o'clock. Miss Vera Jane Parrott, director of choral groups and Edward Janowsky of the instrumental groups will offer their students, including the string ensemble; soloist, Lee Carolyn Henderson; the junior glee club; soloist, Olive Krushat; girls glee club, GeniA Sprinkle and the choir.

Student directors are Arita Winston, Natalie Harpst and Janet Lush. Accompanists include Edna Marie Park, Nancy Peterson, Clara Tuevsky, and GeniA Sprinkle.

C. of C. Has Many Guests of Honor

As guests of honor, the Ocean Beach Chamber of Commerce had several candidates who are now running for nomination at the May 16 primary, at the May meeting held Monday evening at the new location of the Ocean Village Cafe. Fred H. Kraft of Ocean Beach was unanimously endorsed for re-election in the 78th Assembly district for the California legislature. DeGraff Austin was endorsed for nomination as supervisor of the 1st district, county of San Diego. Other honor guests were candidates for the judgeship of the Superior Court No. 1, Judge Jacob Weinberger and Judge Joe Shell.

Lengthy discussion was heard but the meeting could not come to a decision as to which candidate it would endorse, therefore the members decided to make a non-recommendation report.

Also present at this meeting was Ed Hastings, a candidate for the Republican county central committee, and he was unanimously endorsed by the club; James B. Abbey, candidate for the U. S. congress; Clinton McKinnon, owner and editor of the San Diego Daily Journal, and Harrison W. Mason, candidate for supervisor, 1st district. Accompanying the guest speakers were Mrs. DeGraff Austin, Mrs. James Abbey, Mrs. Clinton McKinnon and Mrs. Edgar Hastings. Mayor Harley E. Knox arrived just as the meeting adjourned and apologized for not being able to be there sooner as he had a previous engagement with the Navy staff.

Favor Recreation Center Plans

Plans for the new Ocean Beach recreation building were presented to the meeting and were unanimously adopted as appropriate for the needs of the community. Money was voted for cleaning up and painting the recreation building at the foot of Santa Monica ave., just recently re-leased by the city for temporary recreational purposes.

Following a chicken dinner the large attendance of members cast a unanimous ballot in favor of continuing to hold the Chamber of Commerce meetings at this location in the future. The next meeting will be at 7 p. m. Monday, June 12, at the Ocean Village Cafe. We hope every one will be present and bring their friends.

Lloyd D. Greeson, president.

Club Hears Talk On Race Question

Ocean Beach Kiwanians heard a talk on the race question, particularly on the Japs and their attempts to coordinate the yellow races of the Orient, from W. S. Beam of San Diego, head of the San Diego Coordinating Council of civic activities. Because of their savagery and ruthlessness, the Japs have defeated their own purpose in coordinating the Oriental nations, he said. He also touched on the problems confronting the United States in dealing with the Negroes and Mexicans.

Dr. George A. Warmer of the San Diego club was a visiting Kiwanian and Lieut-Comdr. Harley Smart was a guest of his father-in-law, George Moriarty. The officer, whose wife lives with her folks at the Mariarty home, recently returned from an extended service of about two years in the south Pacific.

Henry Holman was program chairman.

LONG DISTANCE VOTES COMING FOR KRAFT

Among the ballots cast for Fred H. Kraft for assemblyman the one that likely will travel the farthest is that of Elmer Steele, member of the armed forces, who is 10,000 miles away overseas; and another serviceman's absentee ballot that is traveling long distance is that of C. W. Driscoll, who is serving his country 7,000 miles away. His vote also will be for Kraft, according to a letter the assemblyman candidate has received.

12 Running For The U. S. Senate

Featured by the record-breaking number of 12 candidates for the United States senate seat now held by Sheridan Downey, California's primary election will be held Tuesday next, the polling places to be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. A list of these for this part of the county was published in the April 21 issue of the Ocean Beach News. Voters in this area who may be uncertain of their proper polling place can obtain the desired information by calling the registry department in the county clerk's office, phone Main 3811.

Of the 12 candidates for the senate, no less than nine have filed on both republican and democratic tickets. Alonzo J. Riggs is the only one filed only on the republican ballot, while on the democratic ballot, John S. Crowder and Irene M. Dockweiler, are the only ones not filed on both tickets. The last named is the only woman of the 12 candidates.

106 For Delegates

On the republican ballot, one mark in the proper place near the top of the ticket will be enough to show that the voter is voting for all of the 50 candidates for delegate to the national republican convention who prefer Governor Earl Warren of California for president, while on the democratic ballot one mark will suffice the voter to cast his ballot for the 56 Roosevelt candidates for delegate from California to the national democratic convention. Of the republican candidates, San Diego has two, C. Arnholt Smith and Vroman J. Dorman; and of the democratic candidates, San Diego also has two, H. Louise Darby and Congressman Ed. V. Izac.

All the four candidates filed for the one seat in the local 23rd district for representative in congress on the republican ticket also are filed on the democratic ticket and two others in addition, making six in all running for the office.

One Judicial Contest

The judicial ballot has only one contest, that between Joe L. Shell and Jacob Weinberger, with four judgeships to be filled. All candidates are the same on both party ballots. The county portion of the ballot also has the same candidates, five in all, running for the one office, that of county supervisor for the first district.

For members of the county central committees, the republicans have seven candidates, with five to be chosen; and the democrats 12, with four to be selected.

Two Special Questions

The voters here also will have the chance to vote on two special questions at Tuesday's primary. One will be the state-wide question of a proposed amendment to the state constitution which proposes to tax federal property within the state. The other is the local question providing for a vote of the people on organizing a "Water Authority" for San Diego county to get water from the Colorado river.

A total of 147,231 are eligible to vote Tuesday in San Diego county, that being the total of those registered for voting at this primary. Of the total, 89,272 registered as democrats and 57,959 as republicans.

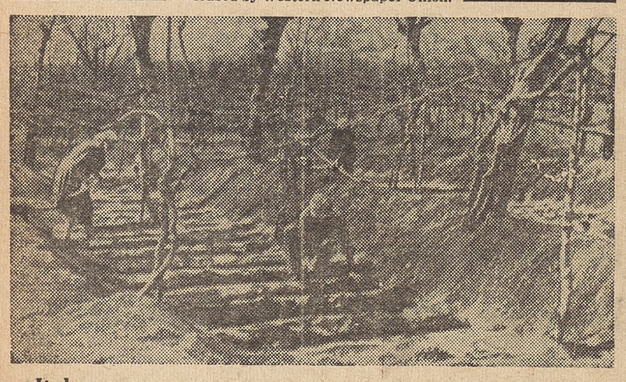
WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U. S. Forces Clean Up Hollandia Area; WFA Announces Dairy Subsidy Rates; Heavy Hog Shipments Glut Markets; Aerial Attacks Weaken Nazi Defenses

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.



Italy—Italian farmers are shown clearing vineyards of small volcanic stone fragments spewn by belching Mount Vesuvius.

EUROPE:
Invasion Awaited

With huge concentrations of shipping reportedly massed in British ports and the Allied aerial attacks continuing in unprecedented force, Nazi Europe nervously awaited the historic and heralded invasion.

While the U. S. and British prepared for hostilities in the west, the Russians were reportedly organizing strength for a new drive into eastern Poland, presumably to synchronize with the invasion. As the Russians gathered their new forces, the Axis armies in southeastern Rumania stiffened resistance and parried Red thrusts along the Dniester river front.

Western Europe found no rest by day or night as British and American heavy, medium and light bombers smashed at the Germans' vaunted concrete and steel Atlantic wall, French and Belgian rail lines over which the enemy could be expected to shuttle troops to meet invasion forces, and German industries supplying the wehrmacht.

AGRICULTURE:
Hog Glut

In the wake of the government's move to buy all corn in 125 midwestern counties for sorely pressed processing industries, heavy hog shipments clogged slaughtering centers, resulting in embargoes in some centers, notably St. Louis, Mo., and Peoria, Ill.

The large shipments were believed also influenced by short feed supplies after two years of extensive use of grain for fattening record numbers of stock, and the government's plan for a minimum price of $12.50 per hundredweight for this fall.

Taking note of the dwindling feed stocks, OPA announced that effective May 15, the ceiling price on hogs over 240 pounds would be cut to $14 per hundredweight, to discourage heavy finishing off.

Dairy Subsidy

To encourage conservation of grains during the pasture season to provide for heavier feed during the fall and winter months, the War Food administration announced subsidy payment rates for dairy production for the next 11 months.

Although rates during the next four months will range from 35 to 65 cents a hundred pounds for whole milk and 6 cents a pound for butterfat, beginning September 1 and ending next March 31, rates will range between 60 to 90 cents for whole milk and 10 cents for butterfat.

Estimated to cost between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000 annually, the whole program is dependent upon congressional appropriations for administrative expenses, WFA said.

RATIONING:
More Butter

Because of record stocks in warehouses and freezers, 35,000,000 pounds of country butter will be available for civilian use in May at 8 red points per pound, along with 112,000,000 pounds of creamery butter at 12 points.

At the same time, OPA announced that more and better ice cream will be produced in May and June, following permission to manufacturers to increase output to 75 per cent of 1941 figures, and to use a mix 1 to 3 per cent richer in butterfat content.

In addition, reductions in point values are scheduled for flank beefsteak, lamb and mutton, variety cuts of pork and veal, dried beef, potted and dried meats, and sausages.

FLOODS:
Field Work Halted

Floods and heavy rain sweeping the country retarded field work and rail shipments alike, in addition to causing extensive property damage and loss of life.

In the middlewest, farm work was as much as three weeks behind schedule, with only half the oats sown in Iowa, and much of that acreage planned to be diverted to corn and soybeans in Illinois. Warm, sunny weather was needed in the winter wheat belt in the southern great plains area. Because of blight and excessive moisture, the southeast feared for its potato crop.

Vegetable and fruit produce enroute to northern markets from the west and south was held up by flood conditions through the Mississippi river basin. A stimulus to the black market was feared through the possible diversion of crops to trucks.

PACIFIC:
Nearer Philippines

Heavy U. S. bombers were within 1,400 miles of the Philippines with the Doughboys' capture of three airfields around Hollandia in northern New Guinea following a whirlwind invasion, which Gen. Douglas MacArthur claimed sealed off 140,000 Japs.

Reinforced by additional troops, British and native units in eastern India braced for a showdown struggle with invading Japs, aiming for the Bengal-Assam railroad supplying Lieut. Gen. Joseph Stilwell's Allied forces, clearing a path for a new communication line to China through northern Burma.

Encountering light resistance, U. S. forces cleaned up Hollandia in record time, extending Allied air and naval control far up the New Guinea coast and threatening the enemy's supply lines feeding bottled troops all the way down to the Solomons to the east. Hollandia's fall also placed General MacArthur one step closer to realization of his vow to return to the Philippines.

SURPLUS GOODS:
Disposal Planned

With government sale of surplus war materials already running at a rate of $12,000,000 a month, federal officials were reported to have agreed upon a plan for entrusting future large scale disposal of such goods to five agencies and 12 business experts.

Under the plan, the War Food administration would handle food; the treasury buyers, textiles; the Reconstruction Finance corporation, land and factories; the Maritime commission, ships and related materials; and the war department, munitions.

The business advisors would counsel on how the various surplus goods should be distributed, but each agency would be asked to formulate its own policy of sale through negotiation, auction or advertising.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

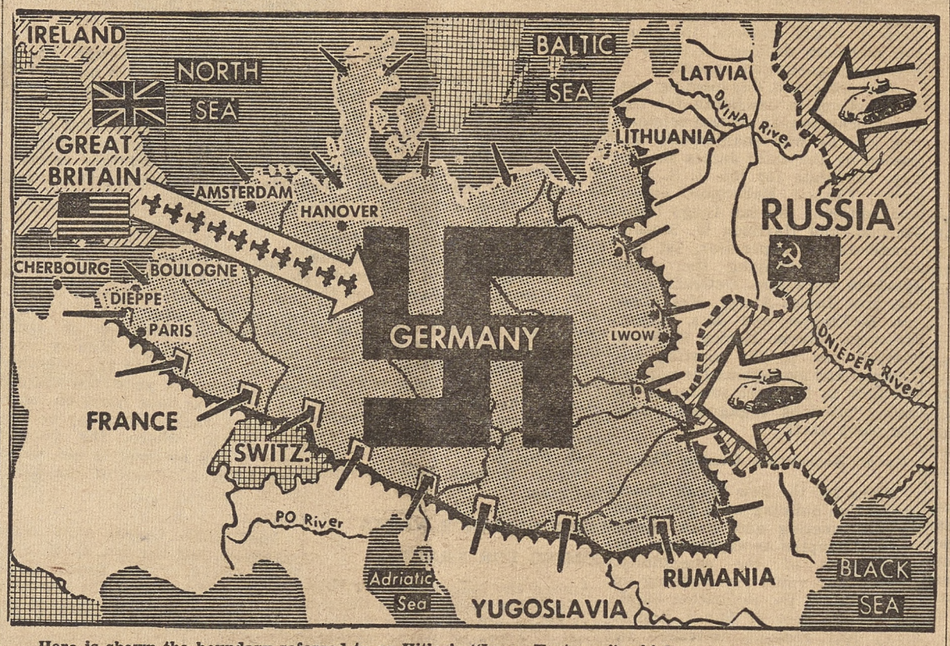
KNOX DIES: Secretary of Navy since 1940 during which time the fleet became the greatest in the world with a strength of over 4,000 ships and 25,000 planes, Frank Knox succumbed to a heart attack in Washington, D. C., at 70. Knox served with the 153rd artillery during last war. Noted as a newspaper publisher, Knox was the Republican vice presidential candidate in 1936.

BASEBALL VETERAN: Tony Mullane, oldest major league baseball star, died in Chicago at 85. He first played with the St. Louis Browns and later went to the Cincinnati Reds as their star pitcher. He ended his career in 1897 with the St. Paul club. Another claim to fame was that he was said to be the only pitcher who could throw with either hand.

American Prisoners of War in Rome

According to the German caption with these photos, which reached the United States via a neutral source, the above men are Americans who were taken captive by the Germans at the Allied bridgehead at Nettuno. The prisoners are on their way to internment camps in the rear.

Double-Barreled Smash at 'Fortress' Europe



Here is shown the boundary referred to as Hitler's "Inner Fortress," which soon may be cracking in several places. Even as the Red army pauses in preparation for a spring drive, the Russians are at the very wall of the fortress, and are expected to hit at vital Lwow, rail gate to Warsaw and Berlin. The Allies must crack the heavily fortified coast line and break through many divisions of Germany's outstanding troops. Meanwhile, pre-invasion pounds from the air continue to knock out Nazi air strength, cripple rail lines and arms factories.

Wichitans Wade in Flood Waters

Wading barefoot was the order of the day as thousands of residents of Wichita, Kansas, were stranded downtown by flood waters of the Little Arkansas river. These venturesome individuals are trying to get home by fording a more shallow avenue of escape.

Attracted to Medicine

Epidemics of influenza in 1789 and 1799, and the dreadful yellow fever epidemic in Philadelphia in 1793, drew Daniel Webster's attention to the field of medicine. Before long, he was in the midst of one of the most bitter medical fights waged in this country—the argument concerning the yellow fever. "No sober reflecting man," he said, "can cast his eyes over the world and see the miseries of man, without a humane wish to alleviate them."

Doctors bickered over causes and treatment, but Webster asked for facts. He invited physicians to send him their observations and promised to collate and publish the information in a volume to be printed at his expense. This he did in July, 1796.

We recommend Fred Kraft to the voters of the 78th Assembly District, as a man well qualified by experience, one who has established himself among us as a man of unquestioned integrity, possessing in high degree the admirable qualities of intelligence, foresight and constructive leadership, both in civic affairs and in the California Legislature, where he has served us ably without fear or favor.

Realizing that we have many newcomers among us, we are taking this opportunity to recommend Fred Kraft, our friend and neighbor, to you as a splendid public official. We feel that Fred Kraft is one of us, and we urge you to help us re-elect him overwhelmingly to the Legislature on May 16th, to represent our district.

New Ownership For This Newspaper

With this issue the Ocean Beach News goes under new management and the ownership of Frank F. Swan, formerly owner and operator of the Leader at Gooding, Idaho, for 21 years, and a past president of the Idaho State Editorial Association. Mr. Swan comes to us well recommended as a man of integrity and we are sure he will prove, as he has with us, to be more likeable as we know him better. The actual transfer of the business will be as of May 1st, 1944, but Mr. and Mrs. Hartvigsen have continued in charge until attorneys prepared a proper sales contract and Mr. and Mrs. Swan looked for a house at the beach and gave attention to settling affairs in San Diego where they have lived for the past half year.

Editor and Mrs. Hartvigsen took over the Ocean Beach News May 1st, 1931, as a 4-page 6-column newspaper, with space to spare for ads and news. Now we publish eight to twelve pages, 7 columns to the page, and are crowded to the limit with news of local interest, and advertisements, principally from local business firms.

We sincerely appreciate the loyal patronage and the respect and help of more than a thousand friends and customers in a continually growing business. We lay aside our newspaper duties with a deep feeling of gratitude, difficult to express in words, for the many true friends who will continue to be honored as such as long as we live. We shall continue to make our home here, resting up a few weeks, then possibly will take up other duties, for in these busy war times there is too much for us to do to sit idly by when workers are needed so desperately.

We commend the new owners to our subscribers, our advertisers, our customers for commercial printing, and all, the fact that they will work for community upbuilding and will be worthy of the support and patronage accorded.

We say again, with sincerity, that we certainly do appreciate the loyalty of the hundreds of friends in this community and over much of the city. We have endeavored to merit the respect of residents young and old, of business associates, of the clergy and the heads of organizations, and we shall continue to have a whole-hearted interest in these friends, their families, and everything that affects the growth of this friendly, busy, business and home center called Ocean Beach.

There are many here of whom we truly can say: "Thou wert my guide, philosopher, and friend."

A FRIEND OR TWO

A little laughter; perhaps some tears
With a friend or two;
The days, the weeks, and the months and years
With a friend or two;
A vale to cross and a hill to climb
A mock at age and a jeer at time—
The prose of life takes the lilt of rhyme
With a friend or two.

The brother-soul and the brother-heart
Of a friend or two
Make us drift on from the crowd apart,
With a friend or two;
For come days happy or come days sad
We count no hours but the ones made glad
By the hale good times we have ever had
With a friend or two.

GREETINGS:

We are making our bow this week as publisher of the Ocean Beach News, having purchased the business from H. H. Hartvigsen, and take this opportunity to extend greetings to the people of this community. After investigating several newspapers for sale in southern California, and after observing the Ocean Beach News since we moved to San Diego last November, Mrs. Swan and I easily made Ocean Beach our first choice both as to newspaper and as to a place to live.

Our impressions of Ocean Beach community and of its people are all to the good. Though Ocean Beach is a part of a large city, evidently it has distinct boundaries, a complete business district of its own and a people imbued with community spirit. Ocean Beach has its own churches, schools, civic and other community organizations, all of which augur well for its future.

In publishing this newspaper, our platform will be to support every worthy effort that makes for a bigger and better Ocean Beach area, and to continue the high standards of journalism that have characterized Mr. Hartvigsen's operation of the News. For the most part there will be no change of newspaper policy by the new owner. From time to time as may be necessary we will announce contemplated changes and improvements in newspaper service that may be found advisable.

Mrs. Swan and I are here to make our home, and hope that our new friends will help us find a home in Ocean Beach that we can obtain soon either by renting or by purchase.

The latchstring is out. Come in and see us and get acquainted.

Kraft's Home Community Boosts His Candidacy

Disproving the old adage about the "prophet who hath no honor," etc., Assemblyman Fred H. Kraft this week won the endorsement of the Ocean Beach Chamber of Commerce, the civic group in Kraft's own community.

Swinging solidly behind the man who "made such an outstanding record during his first term at Sacramento," the Chamber of Commerce voted to endorse Kraft, and work diligently for his re-election on next Tuesday.

Meanwhile letters of appreciation and praise continued to pour into the Kraft headquarters from individuals and organizations, lauding Kraft's past record, and complimenting him on his "far-sighted and broad-gauged program for the future."

Addressing the Linda Vista Civic league during the past week, Kraft envisioned a "San Diego greater than the present, and built on expanded and larger industrial plants, which will continue to make the city the air capital of the west."

As a member of the state legislature's interim committee on aviation, Kraft is devoting much of his time to "encouraging research in our aircraft plants which will spell future greatness for our city."

In his platform Kraft has pledged his full time to the job of "representing the people of the 78th assembly district, and the city as a whole."

Kraft's fellow business men of Ocean Beach also give real expression in a full page ad in this week's News of their enthusiastic support of his candidacy.

Now is the time for all mothers to start planning for their children's vacation. Mothers who are not working as well as those who are. That the "Devil finds work for idle hands," has been demonstrated. Planned play builds the mind as well as the body, said Mr. Kenneth Beam, San Diego director of the Co-ordinating Council, at the Central committee meeting of the Women's Division.

Gilbert Judy spoke on the need of a knowledge of first aid, in preventing accidents. Too many accidents still occur in the home, either through carelessness or ignorance. Our homes should be a "citadel of safety."

J. Henderson, director of Linda Vista, stated that there are about 7,800 children living in that area. The supervisors are helping to overcome playground accidents, by using psychology—the youngster is subtly led to imitate his own particular hero. The Junior Safety patrol has been invaluable in accident prevention.

Lt. Austin of the City Fire Department reported that San Diego has over 300 fires a month, most of them caused by conditions that should not exist anywhere, such as oily rags in closets, smoking in bed, faulty electric wiring, over-loading electric circuits, and stopped-up flues.

Mrs. David A. Fraser presided and announced that those who had not received their service ribbons would receive them at the next Central committee meeting June 7th.

"Plans for children's activities during summer vacation," is the pamphlet for children's needs issued by the Block Plan this year. Every Block leader should have one, and pass on the suggestions to the women in her block.

The need is greater today than ever for lap robes, 54 by 72 inches; hospital slippers, wash cloths and inexpensive gifts, gaily wrapped.

Mrs. Louise Graham, representing civilian defense in the Red Cross home nursing division, in her address at the District 7 meeting, said that the women must realize by this time the need for a home nurse in every home. Call B-6101 to register for classes.

SHALLOW IDEALS OF POLITICAL CANDIDATES

TO THOSE WHO HAD FAITH in America and believed in our ideals and ideology, what they have listened to and read of the statements of those seeking places on congressional tickets—senators and representatives—of both parties, has been discouraging.

With but few exceptions men have sought support for their candidacy on the strength of the amount of "pork" they could secure for their state or their district. They have quite definitely indicated their belief of the desires of the American citizens to loot the national treasury for local, state or district benefits, the desire of the citizens for legislation that will give them an advantage regardless of its effect on the nation as a whole.

Each candidate or would-be candidate has been extravagant in his promises of jobs, new post offices, federal buildings, or constructions for which the national government would pay. He would secure the passage of legislation beneficial to his constituents regardless of the rights of others. Most of them have indicated their intention to work for local rather than national interests. Most of them have not measured up to the job they are seeking.

It is out of such efforts as those promised the voters that minority government is born, whether the minority may represent a class, the people of a congressional district, a state or a minority group of states. The rule of our republic is supposed to be determined by a majority of all of its citizens.

In the majority of cases there has been displayed but little, if any, evidence of statesmanship in the contests for congressional nominations. If the statements and promises of most of the would-be candidates meant what they said, if their conception of the American citizen, as indicated by their statements, is correct, we may well wonder if saving the nation is worth the sacrifice our boys on the battle fronts are making.

In all too many cases the candidates we have selected have painted us as a people entirely devoid of ideals. As they have portrayed us we are but 130 million selfish individuals. The nation and its ideals will live despite them and their false promises.

POLITICAL MOTIVE BEHIND SENATE SPEECH?

ON JANUARY 11 Senator Barkley made a speech in the senate eulogizing the accomplishments of the President and his administration. The speech appeared on the first and second pages of the Congressional Record. In March several people of my town received copies of that speech in the form of a reproduction of those two pages of the Record. Across the top was the statement: "Not printed at government expense." Senator Barkley is to be commended for not having the government do the printing job. He would be entitled to additional commendation had he have paid the postage instead of mailing them under his senatorial frank. I have wondered at the reason for mailing copies of such a speech to people more than two thousand miles from the senator's home bailiwick. Do you suppose there was a political motive?

STALIN'S HAND IN COMING PEACE

IN HIS ADDRESS before parliament Prime Minister Churchill buried the Atlantic charter and President Roosevelt has made no effort to exhume it. Government of conquered nations will not be what those people may want, but what the Allied nations say they can have. Postwar boundaries will be determined by postwar needs. In that the clever hand of Master Statesman Stalin may be clearly seen. Postwar USSR will include the Baltic states, a portion of Poland and all or a portion of Finland. "When the devil is sick the devil a saint would be. When the devil is well the devil a saint is he." That applies.

FROM THE ORGANIZATION of the government and the meeting of the first congress to and through the days of the Civil war only 52 bills passed by congress had been vetoed by the executive. From the inauguration of President Roosevelt in 1933 to March of this year, a period of 11 years, he vetoed more than 600 measures passed by congress, the large majority of which was elected by his own party. Evidently congress and the President have not always agreed.

ALL TOO MANY of those we send to Washington, as senators and representatives, go there with a conception of their jobs as that of looting the national treasury for the benefit of the people who sent them. Some see the error of their ways and reform. Those who do not are, as a rule, not returned for a second term. The American people are for the United States first and for their home state second.

Swine Industry Develops Feed Conservation Plan

C. D. Carpenter Helps Hog Growers Solve Problems; Program Tailored by Cooperative Business Men of Agriculture.

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building Washington, D. C.

When I learned that a former feed man had been the moving spirit in drawing up the present swine program which you'll be hearing about shortly, I recalled an adage I once heard in London:

"The profit in the mustard business is in the mustard you leave on your plate."

That was the statement once made by a famous British mustard manufacturer. In other words, the consumer's waste is the producer's gain.

The proposition seems logical enough and nobody could blame the mustard-maker for hoping that you and I would be as profligate with our condiment as possible. On that basis, I was recently surprised to learn that the government had called in a man in the feed business and paid him a dollar a year to help solve the feed problem. I wondered if it wasn't just possible that maybe the consumer was going to suffer.

I had a talk with some members of the department of agriculture after I learned that this gentleman had done so much for the poultry raisers that they picked him to help on the swine program which is as closely connected with the feed problem as the fly is with the flypaper.

"Why should you pick a man whose interest it is to have the farmer consume as much feed as possible, when there isn't enough feed to go around now?" I asked.

"This whole program," the government official told me, "is worked out by the swine industry itself; the men who produce the hogs, the men who process them, help feed them, distribute them. That's the point. The government merely cooperates. You had better talk to Mr. Carpenter."

I did.

Dollar a Year

Clifford D. Carpenter carries the title of "special assistant to the chief of the feed and livestock branch of the food production administration of the War Food administration." For that long title, he gets the short fee of a dollar a year. He has no desire to remain a public servant. He wants to get back to his business. But he is enthusiastic over the present swine program which he and his colleagues of the industry have worked out, a part of which is the conservation, not the waste, of feed.

I asked why, when his business was to sell the farmer as much feed as he could?

"Because," he said, "the success of the feed business lies in having efficient customers, not careless wasters. One of the ways we helped to increase the poultry output was to teach the farmer to stop waste. For instance, you have no idea how much was saved by having the farmer put a rim on the edge of his feed troughs so the chicks would not spill almost as much as they ate, and what saved even more than that was something much simpler—we got the farmer to fill the feed receptacles three-fourths full instead of brimming."

He went on at some length on this subject, especially emphasizing that the interests of the consumer and the producer are the same in the end and each profits by the other's efficiency—that, he pointed out, is the benefit derived from business in government, one of the good results which many persons feel will come by having businessmen in the many government agencies.

Profitable Patriotism

The whole swine program has been tailored by the "businessmen" of the swine industry and that includes the farmer who raises the hogs, for he is a businessman, too—has to be if he succeeds.

Last month, in Chicago, a group of these men got together, representatives of hog farmers, the breeders, the veterinarians, the packers, the feed men, the equipment manufacturers — everybody interested in the whole cycle from the shoat's first squeal to the dining table.

"It's patriotic to make your herd profitable" was the slogan this group worked out which was a sentence with a two-way kick—you can turn it around and it is just as true—"it's profitable to make a patriotic herd."

These experts decided that there was plenty of feed obtainable in America to meet the war goals, provided that certain conditions are carried out. They agreed on four principles, all of which lead to making efficient producers which they all decided is both patriotic and profitable. These principles are:

Specific Measures

(1) better breeding to improve the size and quality of litters
(2) conservation of available feed stock
(3) reduction of loss through disease and parasites
(4) improved management for greater efficiency and production.

More specifically, the five things necessary to produce the feed which is necessary to reach the animal food stuff goals are these:

(1) to feed no more than 14 pounds of feedstuff for one animal unit
(2) to achieve the maximum use of pasture and grazing land
(3) to sell the animal for meat, before it becomes an inefficient converter of feed into food
(4) to stop the loss caused by rats or spoilage or wastage in other ways
(5) to bring about a higher standard in health in animals.

True Cooperation

Those who are directly concerned in the production of swine are about to have the information that this meeting developed placed before them emphatically in the farm trade papers, over the radio, in lectures, from the county agents, and through their own organizations, so I won't go into it in detail. But the point that many will not realize is that here has been a real achievement brought about by the cooperation of industry and government.

These hardhearted businessmen have produced a program which their action committee is going to do its best to put into effect through the various means of publicity and education which I mentioned. It was unanimously agreed that the producers should plan to finish hogs at 200 to 240 pounds in order to make more efficient use of the feed and for the production of more meat and less lard per unit of feed. They also emphasize the need of taking full advantage of clean pastures and they point out that the saving of from 5 per cent to 10 per cent of the grain, and from 30 per cent to 40 per cent of the protein supplements can thus be made for growing and fattening hogs. There are recommendations for the control of diseases, parasites and various other detailed instructions that are going to be available in attractive printed form and distributed to the hog producers in all parts of the country.

And it isn't Uncle Sam who is "telling 'em."

They are telling each other for each other's benefit.

Manpower Needs

While everybody is talking about demobilization, it seems strange that mobilization in many fields is still far from being complete. There are crying needs for man and woman power in two phases of the war effort causing serious trouble.

The National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, which is the federal government's experimental and scientific research organization, needs 1,500 men. Without this complement, the NACA director of personnel says "the development and production of new and improved aircraft is being hampered."

The need is localized—in laboratories at Langley Field, Va., Moffett Field, Calif., and Cleveland, Ohio. Engineers, physicists, chemists, machinists, toolmakers, sheet metal workers, instrument makers, engine mechanics, electricians, pattern makers and other skilled tradesmen are needed.

At the same time, the National Women's Advisory committee of the War Manpower commission reports that the women's corps of the various armed services are falling far short of their enlistment quotas and many thousands of women also are needed in areas of labor shortage. The committee is urging women's organizations throughout the country to undertake the recruitment job as a major war effort.

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

When RCAF searching aircraft locate stranded airmen but cannot get to them, a trained pigeon is dropped in a metal waterproof container hitched to a small parachute. The stranded men then send the paratrooper bird back with a message of their needs and condition, according to the Canadian information bulletin, Weekly Editor Looks at Ottawa.

The U. S. army will need 75,000 to 100,000 men monthly to maintain its peak strength of 7,700,000 persons, according to the war department. The navy will need 400,000 additional personnel by September 1 to get the navy, marine corps and coast guard up to peak strength of 3,500,000.

Sun and Suds-Proof Fabrics Put Stress on Checks, Plaids and Dots

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

TO SAY glibly that checks and plaids are in fashion does not do justice to the situation as it is this spring, and as it will continue the whole summer through. Fact is, there is a regular epidemic of checks, little, medium, and big, sweeping across the fashion horizon this season. In the cotton realm the vogue for checks, plaids and polka dots rages on and on.

It gives a new importance and meaning to tub fabrics that nowadays they can be absolutely relied on, if they carry the proper guarantee label, to be both sun and suds-proof, due to their everfast processing. It is also noteworthy of the new cottons and other washable weaves that they are receiving the same meticulous styling that in years gone by was reserved for fine wools and silks and such. Which all leads to the present new order of events, that cottons and rayon weaves tub to perfection and go everywhere with high style acclaim these days.

It is washables such as herewith pictured that are riding the crest of the wave in point of high-fashion importance. The attractive dress shown to the right is made of poplin plaided in pink and black, which has been ever-fast processed, so that no matter how many times it is laundered it will come out bright and lovely as ever. Its absolutely fast colors will refuse to give way no matter if an inexperienced little bride tubs it or it has had to pass the test of a boom-town laundry. This stunning dress in pink and black, a color combination especially outstanding this spring, will be equally chic going about town, or stopping to linger at the club or to play a game of bridge. The self-pleating that trims the bodice front and the pockets is a favored fashion gesture. Self-ruffles and pleatings adorn most of the simple daytime frocks, imparting a youthful air that is most pleasing.

The designer of the smart everfast gingham, shown to the left, carries out the new and popular idea of trimming with self-pleating. The handling of the plaid so as to form designful points down the center front of the skirt is also an interesting feature. Dresses of this type will prove smart suburban and town mainstays this summer. They wash prettily, iron quickly and go perfectly with either colored or white accessories.

Polka dots are as popular as ever. They share style prestige equally with checks, plaids and stripes. The winsome frock centered in the picture makes appeal because of its exquisite simplicity and because of the attractiveness of the polka dot material of which it is fashioned. This charming model was one of many lovely wash frocks shown at a style revue recently staged by the Chicago National Wash Apparel association. The sun rayon weave is in powder blue with large white polka dots. The row on row of white machine stitching which trims this gown is handled most effectively. This is the sort of dress you will treasure, for it has a ladylike charm which every woman covets.

If you are going in for smart cottons this summer, and of course you are, for "everybody's doing it," don't miss the joy of owning a little bolero two-piece, either skirt and bolero or sun-back one-piece dress and bolero made of brightly colorful plaid gingham. If you choose the skirt-and-bolero type, you will find it very practical as it looks so positively smart and pretty worn with frilly white sheer blouses or with dark monotone types that have a lot of snowy sheer frou-frou about neckline and sleeves.

Hat Matches Blouse

Red and white rayon crepe are used in this striking blouse and half-hat ensemble. It is a stunning twosome suitable for town or country. Worn with odd skirts or with a suit, it carries style distinction wherever it goes.

Mode Swings Back to 1920s In Long Scarfs and Cloches

The shoulder scarf, the long scarf that we wear about the throat and swinging in the breeze, the stole in fur, these are further additions to the "back to the '20s" vogue. Combine a sweater dress or one with the long torso effect with a cloche, a scarf that hangs in long panels, and simple slipon gloves to keep the arms slender and uncluttered. You'll find that the effect harks sharply back to that time, though the details and colors are different.

Wearing Flowers Is 'The Style' This Year

The custom of wearing artificial flowers has been revived with utmost enthusiasm. So make your heart feel young and joyous and your appearance subtract years by wearing flowers on everything, your lapel, your bag, on the cuffs of your gloves, at your waistline and most of all, indulge in several of the provocative little flower-laden chapeaux that everybody loves. Your simple little black dinner gown will vamp all eyes if you place a single or a couple of giant roses at your waistline. Flowers worn ear-muff fashion are ever so flattering. Your snoods and your scarfs should be prettified with single blossoms or petals strewn all over them. Collar and cuff sets are made of pasted flower petals. Some of these sets have little flower pockets to match.

Simpler Hairdos Lend a Look of Suave Elegance

A look of suave elegance is what best dressed women are coveting these days in hairdress. The general request is for hair shortened in front so that it can be brushed from the temples and brought up into softly arranged curls at the top and sides with no suggestion of a pompadour. The new idea is apparently to keep hair fairly long at the back so that it can be arranged in versatile ways.

Exciting New Silhouette

Young, modern and ever so slenderizing is the verdict rendered in regard to the new long-torso dresses sans belts, the same being fashion's move to create a new silhouette. It's the long-torso dress and the tunic blouse which is bringing about a vogue for smooth waistlines.

Household Hints

The clothesline can be cleaned by wrapping it around the washboard and scrubbing it with a brush and soapsuds.

When mending woolens, a thread drawn from the hem or side will make a neat and inconspicuous darn. Otherwise, use a mercerized thread in a matching shade. Darn on the right side. Do not use a knot as there is no strain on the material.

If you have any made-up starch left after washing, use it on the linoleum. It lends a gloss and the floor stays clean longer.

To avoid needle marks when shortening a raincoat, use adhesive tape as a hem binder instead of sewing. To lengthen it later, just remove the adhesive tape.

A piece of velvet or corduroy placed in the heel of your shoe will make your stockings wear longer.

Dip your measuring cup or spoon in scalding hot water just before measuring molasses. You'll find the molasses will run out easily.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Christopher Columbus is credited with bringing first reports of rubber to the civilized world, but rubber relics found among Mayan ruins lead some scientists to believe that rubber items were in use in the eleventh century.

Rubber, both wild and plantation, grows best in an area 10 degrees either side of the equator.

The production of one complete large bomber tire takes as much time as does the making of several truck tires, or up to 60 passenger car tires of the most popular size. The demand for large tires is severely straining the production facilities of the industry.

JUDGE WEINBERGER WINS LAWYERS' INDORSEMENT

Members of the San Diego County Bar Association, in a secret ballot, voted 138 to 58 in favor of retaining Jacob Weinberger as Judge of the Superior Court.

In passing upon Judge Weinberger and his opponent, Lawyers considered the qualifications of personal integrity, general education, legal ability and experience, industry and diligence, and general standing in the community.

As a result of this poll, The Bar Association endorses Judge Weinberger's candidacy, and recommends him to the voters.

HERE'S ONE BIG REASON WHY TELEPHONES ARE SCARCE

It's the new 45,000-ton U. S. S. Missouri, most powerful fighting ship afloat. It will carry about 1200 telephones, 350 miles of telephone wire, and a ship-wide battle announcing system.

Remember that Uncle Sam launched 568 warships last year—that land forces lengthen their communications every mile they advance—and you will realize why the telephone gets deeper into the war day by day.

The Army and Navy need everything the Bell System can make—not just telephone equipment, but many kinds of secret electrical weapons as well.

Normally, we have reserve facilities. But since the National Defense program started in 1940, the number of Bell System telephones in service has increased by more than 4½ million. The reserves are about used up.

There's a waiting list now—and we're doing everything possible to keep that list from getting longer.

For example, we're crowding switchboards beyond normal capacity. Renovating equipment that can't be replaced. Putting every facility into service.

If you haven't been able to get a telephone, we're sorry. We'll fill your order as soon as we can.

QUEENS DIE PROUDLY

by W. L. White

©. WHITE W.N.U. FEATURES

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lieut. Col. Frank Kurtz, pilot of a Flying Fortress, tells of that fatal day when the Japs struck in the Philippines. Eight of his men were killed while fleeing for shelter, and Old 99, with many other Fortresses, was demolished on the ground. After escaping to Australia, what is left of the squadron flies to Java, where they go on many missions over the Philippines and Macassar Strait. Sergt. Boone, gunner, tells how Queens die, from eye witness experience. Java sea is now full of Jap carriers. The Japs bombard a helpless Dutch town, and a Jap bomb blows up the kitchen. Another bomb scores a direct hit on the fliers' supply of beer.

CHAPTER XVI

"The Dutch made us steel tripods for them in a machine shop, but we had a hell of a time getting anyone to dig the holes. We were flying missions and couldn't do it ourselves. So Silva and I took the truck and went into Madiun. On the street corners we saw a bunch of natives standing around picking their teeth or scratching their bottoms. We argued they must be Jap sympathizers, or else they would have been busy helping win the war. So we pulled out our .45's, and by a coincidence they all got into that truck, and dug us some of the nicest foxholes you ever saw. After that, when the alarm would go off we could run to those foxholes and swing a gun—we knocked down five Zeros with them in the short time we were there.

"We were fixing up our planes, too. Our tail guns had finally cured the Japs of making attacks from behind. Now they were coming in at all directions, hunting for our soft spots, feeling us out like we were some dame on a sofa, but mostly they were hitting us head-on, because they discovered that in the nose we had only a single little .30-caliber. I guess the designers, after putting in those tail guns, had figured they could rest on their laurels, but you can never do that long in a war.

"So we got busy there on Madiun Field. We mounted a big .50-caliber down in the navigator's compartment, rigging it so it would fire out of the ventilator. And for good measure we stuck in another .30-caliber.

"Since then they're carrying out this idea at the factory, but the only way any factory can learn what is needed is from the combat crews themselves.

"But about the time we got those new guns rigged in the nose, the Japs started staying away from us. We'd be flying along pretty as you please when a flock of Zeros would come into view, but staying well out of range—just looking us over. Then one of our gunners might fire a burst in their direction, just to let them know we were on the balls. Or sometimes the Zeros might come in for one or two wide, sweeping passes. But mostly they'd go off with their tails between their legs. Toward the last they only tried to get us on the ground. They knew we had no protection there to speak of—no fighters and no pom-poms. They'd come in insolent as could be."

(Meaning the gunners were in the ball turrets ready to fire.)

"That was the week I got into something way over my head in this liaison work," said Frank, "but first you ought to look at that big de luxe hotel which was the unofficial capital of Java. Its lobby, bar, and dining room were crowded with uniforms—British, Dutch, and American. It looked like a Hollywood costume parade.

"It was an enormous high-ceilinged spacious thing, open to the soft Javanese air—little tropical birds would fly in and out of the dining room and roost on the gleaming chandeliers.

"The Dutch are great eaters, and they have something they call reistaffel. You order it and then sit back and eat while twenty-three waiters line up and walk by your table, each carrying a different sauce or fish or bowl of relish or rice. I tried it once and managed to live by eating only every other course, but your true colonial Dutchman will stoke in all twenty-three into his big pot, drenching the layers down with mugs of beer.

"In the bar you might see the boys of Patrol Wing 10 in from reconnaissance, drinking Daiquiris (this hotel was Navy billeting headquarters), and often I would see my old Hollywood High School classmate, John Robertson, sitting there in his off hours, very handsome in his Naval pilot's uniform, and with him was the most beautiful girl in Surabaya.

"She had dark hair, and an almost ghostly pale face that was sad in repose. Then a smile would quickly light it up, and you'd wonder how you could ever have thought that. And the most beautiful legs in the city. When she'd walk through the bar clinging to John's arm and looking up at him, even the oldest and crabbiest admiral would rustle a little in his chair and lean out to give them a formal inspection. The younger Naval pilots envied John to the point where they would have hated his guts if they hadn't liked him so much.

"John was very busy and I don't think he gave her much thought, but still it's nice to have the most beautiful girl in town crazy about you, to the point where it even bothers the admirals.

"She was, so they said, a very high Dutch socialite and had lots of money, which you might guess by how simple and expensive her evening dresses were. In the daytime she wore a beautifully tailored uniform of one of the woman's volunteer organizations. I think she drove a car for the Dutch General Staff.

"Meanwhile my job was growing by leaps and jumps. In that hotel dining room you might see General Wavell, the British Commander in Chief, or Admiral Hart, or General Brett, who commanded the United Nations Air Force, or Van Oeyen, the Dutch Commander in Chief. I was circulating among the tables, and my brief case was so crammed with hot information I wouldn't trust it in a checkroom.

"There was a feeling of tension. Refugees had been crowding in from Singapore and Sumatra. Now there was a feeling that maybe they'd be crowding out soon. Lots of the natives had already left, and those servants who remained you knew were staying only because they were very loyal. But to whom? Maybe to the Dutch. Or maybe to someone else

The same fist which held the flashlight also held a steel knife.

—staying around to watch us, relaying information we knew not how, or to whom. You couldn't be sure of anything.

"Except that I knew they were watching me, maybe only out of idle curiosity as I circulated from one table to the other, and kept that brief case leaning against my leg when I sat at my own table.

"That hotel certainly wasn't built to keep military secrets. The big high-ceilinged bedrooms had only swinging half-doors like barrooms—open to the air above and below. The barefooted native servants looked after them, only I'd catch them slipping in and out of mine at queer times of the day. But I thought I only imagined it. I also suspected they were listening in the corridor outside. One evening a couple of the pilots were down from Malang—going back the same night—sitting on my bed while we talked over new orders, and somehow a feeling grew on me we were being watched. I whispered to the others to go on talking, slipped off my shoes, tiptoed to the door. Just as I opened it I caught a glimpse of a white robe flitting around the corner. When I got out into the blacked-out corridor, I could see nothing. But then I was sure.

"That night I slept with my brief case under my pillow. In addition every bed was provided with a Dutch widow. At first the American pilots didn't know what to make of this and would kick them out on the floor. I should maybe explain that a Dutch widow is a long padded bolster, and if you sleep with it between your knees, it keeps your legs from pressing together and sweating in the tropical heat. After a while the pilots began to like them.

"But that night I went to sleep wondering about the white shape I'd seen flit around the corner. It seemed about the same size as the waiter who had been staring at me in the dining room for the past three days. Only staring isn't quite the word. Because this particular little chili-picker had glassy eyes like a turtle. I could never catch them directly on me, but I had the feeling it was I he was interested in.

"Two nights later Lieutenant Jacquet came up from Malang. By the time we had finished work it was so late I suggested he'd better spend the night with me. I put my brief case under my pillow as usual. On this particular night it contained something so important I don't even like to talk about it now. Maybe that was why I slept uneasily. Or maybe because the whole outlook for the war was so bad. I realized in the Philippines I had only been lucky, and I might never get out of Java. It was very hot, and in the distance a thunderstorm was muttering as it moved toward the city.

"Anyway, I'd been lightly asleep for about an hour when a glare awoke me. It was a flashlight, held very close—a haze of yellow light coming through the mosquito netting over my face. But in this haze I could see that the same fist which held the flashlight also held a steel knife, and that its point stuck down into the yellow cone of that flashlight. The other hand was just touching the edge of my pillow.

"I gave a yell and dived through that netting like a cat, but the yellow light instantly winked out, and I was standing there alone in the darkness, while Jacquet rolled out on the other side. He hadn't been as nervous as I, and was sleeping more deeply. But just then a blue lightning flash lit up the room, and by its quick glare I saw the door into the corridor closing (I was sure I had locked it). But when I got out into the corridor it seemed empty.

"Why hadn't he stabbed me? I think because he was surprised to find Jacquet there. One of us would surely have been able to make an outcry. And I thought to myself, 'Well, stranger, for a newcomer you're sure getting into a lot of things, because you never thought some guy you didn't know and had never bothered would ever try to kill you through mosquito netting in a place called Java.' The brief case was okay."

"And the queer thing was," said Margo, "that just at this time the report got back to America that Frank was dead. He'd been killed in a flying accident in Java. I was down in Florida by then, and the only man I could really talk to was Cliff Jensen, an Air Corps boy we had known at March and Albuquerque, and later at Morrison Field.

"He was stationed near by, and now was working twenty-one hours a day for the rest of the gang who were fighting in Java. I could really talk to Cliff—we understood each other. The rumor that Frank was dead somehow reached Australia, and of course the Air Corps is a small place. In a few days Colonel Truesdell in California heard it from one of the ferry pilots, and a few days later Cliff heard of it. He didn't tell me, because he wasn't quite sure, but some people thought it had really happened.

"I could feel the difference. They were looking at me queerly now. They would say what a fine boy Frank 'had been.' Or that they were praying for his safe return. They never understand. They can't see that what you're anxious about is not the distant future, but this very night. Is he hungry? Must he go out on a mission? Maybe he's been badly hurt during the day, and you don't know it yet.

"Praying that everything will be all right during those weeks and months to come scares you—it's asking too much, you're afraid. You just pray he's all right tonight, and isn't wounded, and will get enough sleep, so he'll be strong and alert and have a good chance tomorrow. You don't dare ask more.

"Also those strong plump sunburned men who could leave their business for months to lie around on the Florida sands were very 'realistic' about the war—sure it was all a terrible mess and everything was going to pieces, offering me lots of sympathy. But what had any of them ever done to get us a decent Air Force in the past? Or what good were they or their 'realism' doing anyone now? I liked Cliff's better. He knew what the boys were up against and was up half the night trying to hurry reinforcements. Out of the little we had (and he knew how little), so they could hold what they could. Cliff made sense. The rest was a nightmare."

"When we'd first hit Java," said Frank, "we'd been full of the offensive spirit—sure we were going to roll the Japs back off the Philippines onto Formosa with those thousand planes which, according to rumor, were coming within three months. The second month was almost up now, Java was unsteady under our feet, and we'd so far received about two dozen P-40's, maybe a few more Forts than that, and seven dive bombers. Hardly fifty planes in all.

"Now we knew the offensive was out for the time being. What we prayed for was fighters—to defend what was left of our Forts and those beautifully camouflaged Dutch airfields. With fighters to hold them off, we knew we could hold Java.

"All right, suppose the Japs had moved into Timor and cut the jugular vein from Australia, so that our P-40's could no longer hop on the island chain to us on their belly tanks? Why not a carrier? Couldn't the Navy spare just one—which could load up with P-40's in Australia and then, when it was still several hundred miles from Java and out of range of the Jap bombers, it could turn the P-40's loose, let them fly on in to us, and go back for another load?

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS

Savory Dressing Extends the Ham Slice
(See Recipe Below.)

Spring Notes

'Tis the season for foods to don spring dress—to try on new colors, to keep Mrs. Homemaker cool while the sun becomes warmer and brighter, to perk up appetites that lag because "it's too warm to eat."

I'm not advocating any sulphur and molasses diet because you can do a better job in a much smarter way, that is, by serving foods keyed to the season and making the most of them.

The first rule to follow in pepping up menus is to take foods which are choice and fresh. In the vegetable group you'll find asparagus, peas, carrots, radishes, lettuce, spring onions, beets, string beans, spinach, endive, chicory, dandelion greens, escarole and wild greens.

In fruits, there is not as much variety, but the quality is lovely. You can have delicate pink and tender rhubarb, apples, pears, pineapple, cherries, strawberries and oranges.

Keeping Cool.

It's the smart homemaker who cooks her food quickly and stays out of the kitchen during the hot weather. Use the refrigerator as much as possible and plan meals that cook in an hour or less. If it's possible, make ready in the cool hours of the morning, and then just before dinner, pop foods into the oven, broiler or surface units to cut down preparation time. It's a good recipe for remaining cool and crisp.

Here is the first suggestion for today. The ham is cleverly extended with a dressing and may be baked with the garnish and dessert.

MENU I.
Ham on Dressing
Baked Pears Green Salad
Rolls
Strawberry-Rhubarb Pie

Ham on Dressing.
(Serves 6)

1 ham slice, 1 inch thick
1 cup chopped celery
2 cups soft bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon thyme or marjoram
½ medium-sized onion, minced
½ cup bacon or meat drippings

Toss together celery, bread crumbs, salt, pepper, thyme and onion. Add bacon drippings. Put into slightly greased baking dish. Top with ham slice. If desired, spread slice with thin layer of prepared mustard. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 1 hour.

Save Used Fats!

Cranberry Baked Pears.

Pare, halve and core large, firm pears. Place in baking dish and fill hollows with cranberry sauce. Cover bottom of pan with water and bake covered in a moderate oven about 20 minutes or until tender.

Strawberry-Rhubarb Pie.

2 cups strawberries, washed and hulled
2 cups rhubarb, cut in ½-inch pieces
1½ tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
1¼ cups sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon melted butter
1 pastry recipe for 9-inch pie

Mix strawberries and rhubarb together. Blend tapioca, sugar and salt together. Mix with fruit. Add melted butter. Let stand about 10 minutes while pastry is being made.

Make pie crust and line pastry tin. Add filling, cover with top crust, cutting slits in top to permit steam to escape. Bake in a hot (450-degree) oven for 15 minutes; decrease heat to 350 degrees, and bake 30 minutes longer.

Save Used Fats!

Lynn Says

The Score Card: Egg supplies are at an all-time high, so scramble them, poach, fry, boil them. Use them in custards, puddings, or pies, but use them for economy's sake and for health.

Cheese production is in for another cut, and there will be less cheese, except cottage cheese, of course. Use it wisely.

Fat supplies and oils for civilian use are getting smaller. Use them sparingly, and salvage what you can to turn in to your butcher for points and money. On the Also Save list are tin cans and waste paper. Salvage all that you possibly can.

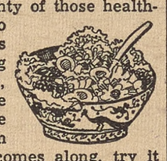
SAVE VITAMINS!

When you're preparing vegetables for summer meals, observe these cautions for conserving vitamins:

As soon as food comes in from the garden or market, wash and refrigerate. Don't prepare vegetables ahead of time for cooking and let stand in water, as this destroys vitamins.

Prepare fruit cups and salads just before serving. Cut surfaces exposed to air destroy vitamin C.

Springtime is the best time to start getting plenty of those health-giving salads into your menus. It's true that during cooler weather, you usually use salad as a side course, but when warm weather comes along, try it as the main event of the meal. Here's a menu that's planned to keep the family as well as the cook delightfully cool:



MENU II.
Supper Salad Bowl
Rye Bread Sandwiches Olives
Lemon Sherbet Sponge Cake

Supper Salad Bowl.
(Serves 6)

1 head lettuce
2 tomatoes, quartered
4 hard-cooked eggs, cut in halves
4 green onions, chopped
¼ pound sliced luncheon meat or leftover meat
¼ pound American cheese

Shred lettuce coarsely, place in salad bowl. Over it arrange tomatoes, eggs, chopped onion, luncheon meat and cheese, cut in squares or strips. Just before serving pour over french dressing enough to moisten.

French Dressing.
(Makes ¾ cup)

1 teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon paprika
Dash of cayenne
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons vinegar
½ cup salad oil

Put all ingredients in a bottle; cover and shake well.

Save Used Fats!

Here is a grand recipe for making that best liked of all sherbets. It may be used as a dessert, or if you like combination salad plates, serve it with that. It's refreshing and delightfully cool:

Lemon Sherbet.
(Serves 6)

¾ cup sugar
Few grains of salt
1 cup water
½ cup rich milk
½ cup lemon juice
2 egg whites
¼ cup sugar

Combine ¾ cup sugar, salt and water; cook 5 minutes. Cool. Add milk, then lemon juice. Freeze firm in automatic refrigerator tray. Turn into chilled bowl; beat thoroughly. Beat egg whites, gradually add remaining sugar; continue beating until stiff and sugar is dissolved. Fold into frozen mixture. Return to tray; freeze firm.

Chap Would Get His $5 Worth If It Did Upset Him

A visitor to a county fair noticed a miserable-looking little man seated on one of the wooden horses of the merry-go-round. Every time the machine stopped, the man made no attempt to get off.

At length curiosity overcame the visitor, and when next the man on the horse stopped opposite him he said: "Pardon me, sir, but do you enjoy going round and round like this?"

The unhappy one grimaced. "Not a bit," he replied.

"Then why do you do it?"

"The man who owns this affair owes me $5, and this is the only way I can get it out of him," came the reply.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES
This declaration of Paul to the Corinthians will be the Golden Text in the Sunday Lesson-Sermon on "Mortals and Immortals" in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston: "As ye have borne the image of the earthy, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly."
According to a Lesson-Sermon account from Matthew's Gospel, "Jesus taketh Peter, James, and John his brother, and bringeth them up into an high mountain apart, And was transfigured before them: and his face did shine as the sun. . . . And, behold, there appeared unto them Moses and Elias talking with him. . . . and . . a voice out of the cloud, . . . said, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased; hear ye him. And when the disciples heard it, they fell on their face, and were sore afraid." Jesus said, "Arise, and be not afraid. And when they had lifted up their eyes, they saw no man, save Jesus only."
In "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" Mary Baker Eddy says: "The admission to one's self that man is God's own likeness sets man free to master the infinite idea. This conviction shuts the door on death, and opens it wide towards immortality."

Horse Sense Will Solve Our Problems
In 1938 I managed John Bacon's campaign for Congress and in 1940 I was on Willkie's Speakers Committee and so am no stranger to the various groups throughout the county interested in government. But that was in "the good old days" of the gasoline buggy. That was fun — but touring the county in a surrey in 1944 will be the high light of my life. I saw a lot, learned a lot and made many wonderful friends.
My campaign has been direct and constructive. I have not said things or made promises just to get votes. Speaking about votes — be sure to vote on Tuesday, May 16. Give Government Back To The People

WINNING THE WAR: Our No. 1 job; the American people want to finish this job in the shortest possible time, with the least sacrifice of American lives, and no politics . . . . RETURN GOVERNMENT TO THE PEOPLE: Our No. 2 job; the need now is to replace rubber-stamp Representatives with courageous, aggressive Congressmen . . . . END BUREAUCRACY by eliminating every bureau and regulation not absolutely necessary to the war . . . . LABOR LEADERSHIP must be taken out of politics, and betrayal of Labor by racketeers stopped . . . . WHEN VICTORY COMES, Congress, representing the people, should have a place at the peace table . . . AID TO VETERANS, especially the disabled, should be adequate, but the public will oppose such politically-inspired measures as the proposed multi-billion dollar raid on the Treasury.

Good Exercise, Yes!...

But it's easier to pay bills with

TENPLAN CHECKS!

Easier . . . and smarter, too! Because cancelled TENPLAN checks are a valid receipt for each bill you pay. Buy a TENPLAN checkbook containing 10 checks for $1 at any branch of Bank of America. To My Fellow Citizens:

It has been suggested that notwithstanding my 33 years' residence in San Diego it might be advisable for me to make a public statement in connection with my present campaign to be retained as Judge of the Superior Court.

Since the start of the War, the population of San Diego has expanded greatly. Thousands of citizens who are entitled to vote in the coming election are not thoroughly familiar with the background and personalities of candidates for public office. For that reason I present this statement.

I received my education in Denver and graduated with a degree of Bachelor of Laws from the University of Colorado in 1904. I was engaged in the practice of law at Globe, Arizona, for six years and for the major part of that time served as Assistant District Attorney. During my residence in Arizona I was elected and served as a member of the Constitutional Convention and participated in the drafting of the present Constitution of that State.

In 1911 I came to San Diego with my family and made San Diego my home where I have practiced law continuously until my appointment as Judge of the Superior Court. At present I am Presiding Judge of the Superior Court, having been so selected by my five colleagues of that Court. Prior to assuming the Bench I served as City Attorney for the City of San Diego.

I have always taken an active part in Public and Civic affairs, having served as a member of the Board of Education for 21 years and was president of that body for three terms. My Civic activities include voluntary services as a Director of the Community Chest, War Chest, and U. S. O. Organizations.

I now offer myself as a candidate to continue as Judge of the Superior Court for the full term—Office No. 1. (This term begins January 8, 1945.) As my present term of office expires on November 7, 1944, just two months before the beginning of the full term, my name also appears on the ballot as a candidate (unopposed) for the short (two-month) term, to fill out the interval.

I feel that service in a judicial office gives to a Judge a training and experience which is a thing of definite value to the community, and that in public office, as in business, turn-over of employees is costly to the employer.

If my life in this community, and my record in office, have produced a desire for the continuance of my services I shall hope and expect to be elected.

Jacob Weinberger.

Unique Setting for Your Bric-a-Bracs

NO MATTER how often you have to move or whether you change from a spacious house to a single room there are certain treasures that will mean home to you. A few books, a piece of china and some perfectly useless but cheering bits of bric-a-brac.

By all means take them with you and make an attractive setting for them.

A shadow-box cupboard will do the trick. No special skill and almost no tools are needed to make it.

If you do not have a saw to cut the scalloped frame, mark it on plywood and take it to the nearest woodworking shop to have it cut. You may have the straight boards cut where you buy them. Then all you will have to do is to screw them together; tack on the front frame and paint or stain to suit your room color scheme.

"Mother" Is The Greatest Word

Mother—It's a cry at night
A tender word, a soft caress
Dispelling thots of fright.

Mother—It's a gentle kiss
Tears wiped away, a word,
And all is gone that was amiss.

Mother—A protective arm
A shelter in the dark,
A shield against all harm.

Mother—It is watchful eyes
Alert to do or die,
For the offspring that they prize.

Mother—Eyes that shine with joy
And always give encouragement
To ambitious girl or boy.

Mother—It's a word of cheer
A pickup to the faltering
Whenever danger's near.

Mother—It's a guiding light
To lead us thru the shadows
A star along the path of right.

Mother—Makes the hard relent,
And it's forgiveness too,
It makes the sinner's heart repent.

Mother—Of faith a sturdy rock,
That stands the buffeting of calumny,
That intrigue and meanness cannot shock.

Mother—It's a monument of power
To which may cling the dauntless,
Yet it's the sweet scent of a flower.

Mother—It is sacrifice,
Boys given to the Nation
To pay the fullest price.

Mother—It's the strength of kings
The courage of a soldier,
It sustains the fliers' wings.

Mother—There are demons who'd defy it
Make of souls but carion flesh
But a Great God will deny it.

Mother—It's a word of love
There is no greater blessing
Even in Heaven above.

Mother—It's everything that's fine
Something of the earthly
But more of the Divine.

Mother—Born of Heaven and the fertile sod
Ever be our blessed link
Between this earth and God.

—GEORGE J. McKEON.
